A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

We are nearing the Birth of a New Year, and the close of each day brings us one step nearer the tomb of this one.

Pause for a brief moment of tranquil thought and contemplate the flight of time. Look back over the dying embers of the days that are gone and seek among the bleaching ashes of your past deeds for an inspiration that will spur you on to greater achievements.

May the dawn of Christmas morning break clear for you and yours, and may each golden sun-beam come laden with joy, and may the New Year be heralded by peace, prosperity, health and happiness, is my sincere wish.

AWAITING THE VISIT OF A VERY DEAR FRIEND

"aus is having these days!"

Mrs. Santa Claus was busy packing up dolls, and wonderful teddy bears, and trains of brightly painted cars, and bugs of candy, and skates, and little carts. and sleds, and picture books, and all the hundreds of other things that every youngster in the world is wait-She paused in her work for a moment and looked over her glasses, "So you want to see him. Humm, humm, He doesn't like much to talk or be interviewed, just about this time, you know. What do you want to see him about ?"

The Man From the Newspaper cleared his throat. "Oh," said he, "I just merely wanted to ask him how he is going to get around, in case there is not enough snow on the roofs for his sleigh."

Not Behind the Times.

"Well, I never; that's just what he has been fussing about himself for the past two weeks. But the thing is all settled now. Everything straightened out. Why, he is out there in the back yard now practicing with his air-

"Airplane!" cried the startled Man

From the Newspaper. Yes, airplane. That's what I said. He is going to try out an airplane this year." Mrs. Santa reached over and picked up a beautiful, dark-haired, rosy-cheeked doll nearly two feet high. "I wonder what I shall do to get that in." she mused aloud.

"But he has always used reindeer, always, always," ventured the Man From the Newspaper, when he had recovered from the shock.

"Of course he has, silly," replied Mrs. Santa Claus. "But, my dear young man, do you suppose that just because we are up at the North Pole here we are behind the times? Not a bit of OODNESS sakes alive, what it. Of course he may use the reindeer time good old Santa as usua; and the sleigh, if the snowstorm that he has ordered from the North Wind turns up on time. But we've decided that if the storm doesn't arrive, it will be the airplane."

One Question Barred.

"You see its * * * " She suddenly stood up. "Why don't you go out into the back yard and talk to him yourself? I think I hear the motor now. I guess that he will tell you about the troubles that come when there is not enough snow on the roofs. Mind you don't ask him any curious questions though. He hates curious questions, you know, questions such as we have been listening to this past week, like: 'What am I going to get for Christmas?' People don't know. Heavens on earth, what a chorus of that kind of questions there is now! Folks ought to know that they must just wait. Run along now, I'm busy."

The Man From the Newspaper went out into the back yard.

"Brrrrrrr rrrrrr rrrrr * * *" he heard above his head. He looked up. There sure enough was an airplane. It was tearing around in a mad circle, with Santa Claus sitting on the top of one wing and holding on for dear life.

There was a row of chimneys set up on the ground, and, as the flying machine roared over them, Santa Claus would lean forward and kick a lever and down would drop a doll, ker-plop, in a parachute, or a boy's book, or a pair of furlined gloves, or something else. And every single one of the parachutes would go right straight down a chimney.

Parachute Mistakes.

After a few minutes the machine came down to the ground and Santa Claus climbed out. "Wheuuu. That was terrible," said he, blowing on his hands.

"Do they always go right straight down the chimneys?" asked the Man From the J wspaper.

lo," replied the white-haired, fur-coated old Saint, "You should have been around when I tried it first, though. THEN they NEVER would go right. It has taken me a whole week to get them to go where I want them to. "You see, it was rather hard at first, and rather bad, too. If I sent a sled to Willie Jefferson, and it went flop right down the chimney of the elder Miss Jones, now, well * * * haha-ha • • • what on earth would the elder Miss Jones do with a new, shiny, steel-framed flyer?

"But I got them to go right after a while. I shall use the parachutes in some cases, but mostly I believe that shall go right down the chimney as usual, with the pack. It only takes a minute. And if something SHO I.D go wrong with the parachute know * * * well, I'd rather no what might happen."

"Doesn't look as if a st coming. either," suggested th From the Newspaper, to get dis cussion back to the reinded and sleigh question.

No Room Except on Top. "No, it doesn't," admitted Santa "That's just what started me practicing. You've no idea what a terrible job it is for those poor reindeer to haul a heavy load of toys across a roof when there is no snow. It simply tires them to death. So, if the North Wind gets up to any pranks with me, I'll just use the plane. "Is it much faster?" asked the Man From the Newspaper.

"Faster? I should say it is," said St. Nicholas. "It's a pretty big old world, you know, even if some of these scientists do deny it. Maybe they wouldn't be quite so sure if they had to make a trip all over it every Christmas, as I do. I have to be in France and America and England all at the same time almost, you know. Only about five hours difference."

"Why do you ride on the top of the plane?" demanded the Man.

"No room inside, that's why. Just take a look at that plane, young man," said Santa Claus. The Man walked

The plane was just jammed, erammed, packed with boxes and bundles and packages. "It's only the first load, all that," explained St. Nicholas, "I have to make 24 loads in all. Bells? Surely. There they are, hung up over there on the wall of the house. My old sleigh bells, of course. One has to be economical, though, these days of high prices and everything."

Joke on the Children.

"I am simply going to tie the bells over the plane and let the wind ring them. Of course you understand about the reindeer. If it really DOES snow · · · they're trim as ever. There's Prancer and Dancer there now, over by the fence eating moss. "Won't it be a joke on the children, though! No one will dream, when they hear the drone of an airplane motor above the house, that it's me, will they? I can see them all waiting, rucked in their beds, listening for the ound of the reindeer on the roof, And here won't be any reindeer at all, if

Where Christmas Comes From

By T. C. HARBAUGH

From the land of song and story,
Angel-kept and old as Time,
Where the lily in her glory
Reigns the Queen of Judah's climeFrom the village of the stranger
Where the infant Saviour lay,
Cradled in an humble manger,
Christmas comes to us today.

From the fields where grew the flow'rs Where His childhood flitted by, Where His childhood inted by,
Where He spent the fated hours
'Neath the burning Orient sky,
And from where the roses scrambled
Over hedge and mossy wall,
Carpeting the paths He rambled,
Christmas comes to greet us all.

Kedron still its song is singing To the far off Orient sea, And the tuneful bells are ringing In the old year's jubilee; Children pluck the lily blowing On her ever graceful stem, And the lazy herds are lowing On the plains of Bethlehem.

Where He trod the paths of sorrow Where He felt the wound of thorn, Where He longed the brighter morrow Dawns the holy Christmas morn.
Where the gentle day discloses Happiness on land and sea, Once He blessed the gentle roses On the shores of Galilee.

Aye, from humble hut and steeple In that land that lies afar, Rise the anthems of the people
To the glowing Christmas Star;
There is told the olden story How amid the scented hay, Christ, the Saviour, came from glory Upon earth's first Christmas day.

Communications Sent by "Pony Express" Necessarily Had to Take Up Little Space.

An interesting relic of other days turned up in Washington not so long institution which can be set up on any ago in the shape of a letter of instructions sent in the pony-express Christmas is a spiritual creation, and days by a merchant in St. Louis to his agent in San Francisco. This letter has reference to the disposal of a lot of a child. If it then be a mood, it of goods that were shipped by way can be extended over a week, a month, of Cape Horn, and, although it cona year, a lifetime. It can be built upon tained several thousand words and a copy of an invoice, it was written on just two sheets of paper.

The paper itself is a sort of tough, opaque tissue, very thin and slight. When folded the letter slips easily into an envelope three inches wide.

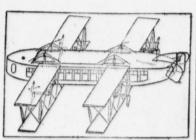

The sason why this communication was prepared in such a peculiar way, lies in the stamp attached, one of the old "pony express" series, with a design of a man on horseback spurring at a gollop across the plains. We all know, of course, that the Pacific mail of that period was carried by relay riders, but few of the present generation have any idea of the great pains that were taken to reduce its weight to a minimum. The letters were stored in little flat pouches under the flaps of the saddle, and they were usually written on a specially prepared tissue. The one referred to must have occupled an export clerk several days, for the penmanship is minute. It is, however, beautifully executed, clear and

FOOD PRODUCTS FROM

On Average Farm Poultry About 10 Per Cent of Me for Family Use.

A large proportion of the pour products of this country are produ on general farms. Nearly every f has its poultry flock. The ave American farmer reserves about th dozen eggs a week for family use about 50 fowls are consumed by family during the year. These for products can be secured absolute fresh, which considerably enhance the value of this contribution from t farm, says the United States department of agriculture. Of the meat furnished by the farm to the operator and his family, poultry constitutes about 10 per cent.

A small flock of poultry can be kept on the farm at little cost. The fowls find scattered grain about the farmstead and on the adjoining grain fields after harvest. Garden refuse and kitchen waste are usually available for them. They also feed on insects and worms. In many cases the farmer's wife and children find pleasure in caring for the flock.

STEW OR SELL ALL ROOSTERS

Male Bird Does Not Aid in Production of Eggs and Should Be Disposed Of in Summer.

Farmers lose many millions of dollars annually from bad metheds of producing and handling eggs. Much of this loss is preventable, because it is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs, which have been allowed to become warm enough to begin to incubate.

You can help save the loss due to blood rings by keeping the male bird from your flock after the hatching season is over.

The rooster does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. The fertile germ in hot weather quickly becomes a blood ring, which spoils the egg for food and market. Summer heat has the same
